

Major Joseph M. Morehead has received from the makers in Philadelphia the bronze tablet which on July 4th at the Battle Ground will be unveiled in honor of Mrs. Kerenhappuch Turner, the revolutionary heroine who traveled on horseback from her home in Maryland to Guilford Court House and nursed her wounded son back to health and strength. The tablet is a very pretty one and has a suitable inscription on it. It will be mounted on a stone base. Major Morehead has secured the services of two little Colonial Dames to draw the cords unveiling the tablet. They are a daughter of Dr. B. B. Williams, who traces her ancestry back to Betsy Barker, the woman at whose house the Edenton Tea Party was held, and Mr. Charles L. Van Noppen's little daughter, who is a descendant of the famous Dr. David Caldwell, of Mecklenburg.
